

Slovenian Translators and Machine Translation Post-Editors (Early career/ EUR30 per day)

Andovar is seeking a number of early-career translators/students to work on a large machine translation post-editing project for a leading online hotel booking/travel operator. The project is to translate 2 million English words to various languages including Slovenian. The content is very simple and consists of hotel room names and short booking notes.

About us: Our company, Andovar, is an international provider of comprehensive content globalization solutions headquartered in Singapore with a global support structure spanning Asia and the Americas. Our progressive communications solutions cover a complete range of localization, content creation, multimedia and multilingual SEO solutions.

This is work from home position: you must have a reliable internet connection and computer. We can provide successful candidates with the workload that suits your availability. Offer pay is depending on test results.

Requirements:

- Be a native of Slovenian
- Translation experience is not required
- You must own a recent model computer with an internet connection
- You must be willing to take a short translation/editing test of 400 words

Translator/Editor/Post Editor

- Translators should expect to manage appx 3,000 to 5,000 words per day of straightforward content
- Editors should expect to manage appx 6,000 to 8,000 words per day
- Machine translation post editors should expect to manage appx 10,000 to 15,000 words per day
- Glossary of hotel terminology provided.

Offer pay: up to EUR 30 per day, depending on test results

To apply, please visit:

<http://www.andovar.com/early-career-translators-and-machine-translation-post-editors-required/>